Overwhelmed by the Spirit is a good book. I found the chapter called Hopeless to be an eye opener. In this chapter James describes an angel taking him to see the first level of Hell. I won't include everything that James saw but enough to reveal a picture. You can read the rest for yourself. James felt his spirit body going straight down through the ground and through the earth. Based on this, Hell must be inside the center of the earth where we think of the hot molten lava core being. I'm wondering if earthquakes and volcanos are really Hell expanding? James found himself and the angel in a large, dark cavern. The walls looked like black concrete. He heard screaming, moaning and wailing. The place was very hot like a furnace. The smell was an overpowering stench of sulfur and burning decay. He had all of his senses; sight, hearing, touch, taste and smell. He found that he had to breathe just like we do as humans. So he was breathing this stinky air in and out of his lungs and breathing was difficult due to the extreme heat. James could think with his mind just as he did in our human world. Large demons were chained to the walls. They were growling and yanking on their chains. They spoke in some kind of demon language. James saw what he thought was a lake filled with very black water but instead he realized the water was an oily or gooey sludge and at the bottom of it was a multitude of narrow pits. Inside each pit was a soul submerged in the sludge and breathing the substance in and out of their soul-bodies. The souls could not climb out. They will breathe that black, oily sludge in and out of their bodies forever.
